THE proprietors has succeeded (from directions of Professor Stone), in combining the Oil and Linseed oil perfectly so that the taste of the Oil, which is so mucous, to persons generally, is entirely overcome, and it can be taken by the most delicate females with pleasure. And as regards the Furniture, the whole to be completed with the benefit of this article over the clear oil, the following rule, by Professor Stone, is sufficient to convince the most sceptical. The young lady was 24 years of age.

"Her disease was one of unmixed phthisis, which had been expected to terminate in the course of a few months fatally. The upper part of her lungs was filled with leathery, and all some places here beginning to soft, &c. The case was evidently a bad one. The treatment of Linseed Oil was at first used, but without marked improvement. The Phosphate of Lime was then administered with the Oil, and the result, as in the case of many others, was soon apparent. The patient was rapidly getting well."

This preparation does not use the Col. Liver Oil because it makes it very difficult for persons travelling as it keeps fresh for a long time.

We have got the genuine, Manufactured only by ALEXR. H. WILBOR, Chemist, 150 Court Street, Boston.

NEWPORT,

BY CHANSTON & NORMAN,
127 THAMES STREET.
FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 8, 1852.
ELECTION MONDAY, NOV. 8.

Whig National Nominations

FOR PRESIDENT,
WINFIELD SCOTT,
OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,
OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Electors,
ELIZABETH HARRIS, of Coventry;
ISAAC P. HAZARD, of Newport;
ANSON D. SMITH, of Providence;
CHARLES ALLEN, of North Kingstown,

"We frequently notice ex-Lieutenant Gov. Lawrence at the Hotel and at other public places; being relieved from the "excessively arduous duties of his office," he has more leisure to attend to his friends than he had last summer; then his whole time was so constantly employed that he could scarcely recognise any as he passed them in the street. We also often meet his honor Lieutenant Gov. Arnold, and notwithstanding his official duties, he is as calm, amiable and agreeable as a May morning; it is astonishing how differently different men bear their honors. Gov. Arnold will please pardon us for making use of his name in such a connection."

"We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the White Mountain Station House, in another column. The House is delightfully located at the immediate base of the White Mountain Range, and is kept in the best manner. The surrounding scenery is charming, the air pure and bracing, and the charges moderate. See advertisement."

"900 Persons attended the Promenade of New York City the first day it was on exhibition here; and the audiences do not in the least diminish. The afternoon Exhibitions, at 3 o'clock, are attended principally by Ladies. To-day & to-morrow will be the last Exhibitions in this place."

The Evening Exhibitions commence at 8 o'clock; go to the Town Hall & see it.

The Liquor Law in Maine is vigorously opposed this season, as destructive to the business interests of that State.

The probability is that the anti-Liquor law supporters will carry all before them at the coming election. We hope so. Such a law is a disgrace to the present age and the intelligence of our country.

Recursion of Mr. Webster in Boston.—The Advertiser states that the preparations to receive Mr. Webster are on a most magnificent scale, and the event promises to be one of the most grand and successful public demonstrations Boston has witnessed for many years.

"Step into the Drug store of C. G. C. Hazard, next north of the Post Office, and examine the lot of splendid Fancy goods which he has just opened; it is a rare chance for bargains."

The Boston Mail now arrives at 11 o'clock, A. M., and closes at 1 o'clock, P. M., per steamer.

The New York Times has a rumor that Hon. James Duane Doty, of Wisconsin, a Democrat of great influence, whose majority was six or eight thousand, has not only repudiated the nomination of Gen. Pierce, but has declared for General Scott. Mr. Durkee, his colleague, has also repudiated all connection with the Pierce Democracy.

"The death of Mr. Clay leaves but a surviving member of those who composed the cabinet of John Quincy Adams, namely, our fellow-citizen, Richard Rush, now living in the enjoyment of excellent health, and unusually active habits, at his country seat in this vicinity. Mr. Rush is also the only surviving member of Mr. Madison's administration in whose cabinet he filled the post of Attorney General, at the early age of thirty-three.—Philadelphia Inquirer."

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN REPUBLICANISM AND ROYALTY.—The editor of the New York Courier des Etats-Unis says of the "National Mourning" for Mr. Clay:

"In our youth we attended the funeral solemnities of a king of France. The mournings preparations were undeniably more costly; every thing was conducted with that pomp, expensiveness, and magnificence, which monarchs alone can give to a public ceremony; but the spectacle which we have now before our eyes surpasses for the occasion which our memory recalls. There, the people gathered from curiosity; here, it is true grief that assembles them. There, it was only an official mourning; here, it is a national sorrow."

For the News.

A Plea for the Little Birds.—On hearing a gentleman enquire where he could get a Revolver, I said to him, "Get one, and come thou not that foolish thing and scatter death around, And dash with blood their plumage gay and give the ghastly wound, And still in death the cheerful voice that greets us at the down, Breathing the sweetest melody, while'er our steps are drawn!"

And have we rights to take from them, what God so kindly gave, And drive them from their needful food the fruit their nature craves?

Was it for us, the fault was spread on Tree-tops waving high, Where limb of ours can never reach, nor bare we wings to fly?

O no, for them 'twas surely meant, we have far more than they;

Adapted to our taste and used, placed kindly in our way;

They seldom seek to rob us of the Apple, Peach or Pear;

And Cherries, Currents, Berries, are what we best can spare.

And if 'tis robbery from us, they pay us all they can, In song, and little works that prove a benefit to man;

They clear the little insect tides from off our valued Tree,

Having our most delicious fruits from injury or disease.

And brief the time they can enjoy, their dainty summer falls;

For Autumn winds, o'er long will come and strip the branches bare;

Then we shall have within our homes, of fruits a goodly store;

But they'll summer comes again, can taste of fruit no more.

And when they come in early spring, o'er past is winter's reign,

How gladly do we welcome them, our little friends again;

And how they toll amidst barren fields, for daily food of seeds.

A scanty meal glean'd here and there, from off the last year's woods.

Then blessings are they sent to us, and those too well are known.

For deeds of goodness and of love towards thy followers shown,

To injure a little bird, when thinking o'er their wrongs,

Thou'll let them live and every year, they'll pay thee with their song.

The "Boston Journal" thus alludes to the duel between John Randolph and Mr. Clay, an act which Mr. Clay regretted all his life, but to which he was provoked by one of the most wanton and meditated assaults ever made upon a public man.

When we take into consideration the relations which subsisted between Mr. Clay and Mr. Randolph during the long period of their Congressional career, we can only wonder that, with the nice sense of honor peculiar to Southerners, a duel had not previously occurred. It was only through the forbearance of Mr. Clay that such a result was averted, and it was precipitated at this time only by a most gross and offensive personal attack.

The particulars of the duel are well known. The eccentric descendant of Pocahontas appeared on the ground in a huge morning gown. This garment constituted such a vast circumference that the locality of the swarthy Senator, was at least a matter of very vague conjecture. The parties exchanged shot, and the ball of Mr. Clay hit the center of the visibla object, but Mr. Randolph was not there! The latter had fired in the air, and immediately after the exchange of shots he walked up to Mr. Clay, parted the folds of his gown, pointed to the hole where the bullet of the former had pierced his coat, and, in the shrill tones of his piercing voice exclaimed "Mr. Clay, you owe me a coat—you owe me a coat!" to which Mr. Clay replied in a voice of slow and solemn emphasis, at the same time pointing directly at Mr. Randolph's heart, "Mr. Randolph, I thank God that I am no deeper in your debt!"

Discovery of Gold in Australia.—The Whitehaven Herald gives the following information respecting the first discovery of gold in Australia:

The first piece found was by a native. He was a bushman. The scale of intellect of the Australians is remarkable for its lowness. Seeing his master counting a lot of sovereigns, he said he had found a piece of "yellow stuff" far bigger than all those together, which he had hidden, and would bring it to his master, if he would give him a new suit of corduroy. The bargain was struck, after which the man went and produced a lump of Gold, weighing 106 lbs. and valued at $5,077 4s. 6d."

CONNELL DEVON.—A Philadelphian who had been indicted for selling lottery policies, failing in his efforts to "buy his peace" with the officers of the law, eluded their vigilance by advertising his death, and inviting his friends to the funeral, which was conducted with becoming solemnity under direction of his "bereaved widow," while he stepped over into New Jersey. The ruse succeeded completely until an evening or two since, when the dead man yielded to his desire to visit Philadelphia, where he was discovered by some one whose faith in walking ghosts did not render him doubtful as to the identity of the cunning rogue.

JOHN RANDOLPH'S MOTHER.—The late John Randolph, some years before his death, wrote a friend as follows:

"I used to be called a Frenchman, because I took the French side in politics; and though this was unjust, yet the truth is, I should have been a French atheist if it had not been for one recollection, and that was when my departed mother used to take my little hands in hers, and cause me on my knees to say—'Our Father who art in Heaven.'

BY TELEGRAPH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.
The Native American party are firing a salute of 100 guns, in honor of the nomination of Webster and Washington. Mr. Webster passed through the city this afternoon, and the nomination was tendered him. He is reported to have said he would stand the fire.

CLEVELAND, July 7.

At about 12 M. the steamer Rockeye State, with the remains of Mr. Clay on board, came in sight. Minute guns were fired, the bells of the city were tolled, all the stores and offices were closed, and black hangings were displayed from the windows on the line of procession.

A large number of citizens repaired to the steamboat landing, where the remains were delivered by the Buffalo to the Cleveland Committee. They were afterwards delivered by Gov. Wood to William Dennison, and the Columbus Committee. The Cincinnati Committee and Kentucky delegation met the remains here. The remains left here in a train at 1 P. M.

Gen. Scott and Gen. Jackson.

Political hyenas are raking up a difficulty that occurred some 35 years ago, between Gen. Scott and Gen. Jackson. Some angry words were the only result of the difficulty, and while certain journals publish Jackson and Clinton's letters to Scott—which we gave the pith of a day or two since—they omit the following letter in point:

Gen. Scott and Gen. Jackson.

Head Quarters, 1st and 3d Military Departments, N. Y., Jan. 2, 1818.

Six—Your letter of the 3d ultmo, was handed to me about the 22d, and has not been read, I might say thought of since. These circumstances will show you that it is my wish to reply to you "diplomatically."

I regret that I cannot accept the challenge you offer me. Perhaps I may be restrained from wishing to level a pistol at the breast of a fellow being in private combat, by a sense of religion; but less this motive should excite the ridicule of gentleman of liberal habits of thinking and acting, I beg leave to add, that I decline the honor of your invitation from patriotic scruples. My ambition is not that of Erostratus. I should think it would be easy for you to console yourself under this refusal, by the application of a few epithets, as coward, &c., to the object of your resentment, as I here promise to leave you until the next war, to persuade yourself of their truth.

I have the honor to be
Your obedient servant,
WINFIELD SCOTT.

To Gen. Andrew Jackson,
Commanding the Southern Division of the U. S. Army.

General Scott has lived until that "next war," and we think his Mexican campaign did not prove him a coward, nor do we believe General Jackson ever thought him one.

The best of proof that there was no very deep or abiding enmity between the two great captains is found in the fact that Jackson selected Scott to handle South Carolina nullification, long after these letters were written. Further than this, as showing the state of Geo. Scott's feelings towards his brother in arms, at the time of Gen. Jackson's death, Gen. Scott was at West Point, attending the annual examination of the students, and was President of the Board of Examiners. Immediately on the receipt of the news of Gen. Jackson's death, he addressed the Board of Visitors, as follows:

"Ex-President Jackson died at the Hermitage on the 8th inst. The information is not official, but sufficiently authentic to prompt the steps I am about to take. An event of much moment to the nation has occurred. A great man has fallen. General Jackson is dead—a great general and great patriot, who had filled the highest political stations in the gift of his countrymen. He is dead. This is not the place, nor am I the individual, to pronounce a fit eulogy on the illustrious deceased. National honors will doubtless be presided by the President of the United States; but, in the meantime, and in harmony with the feelings of all who hear me, and particularly with those of the authorities of this institution, I deem it proper to suspend the examination of the cadets for the day, and to wait the orders of the Executive of the United States on the subject."

FOR THE statement of the New York Mirror that a movement is on foot to nominate Daniel Webster as an independent candidate for the Presidency, with the hope to throw the election into the House, may be true, though the project itself is absurd. Such a movement would only the more certainly secure the election of General Pierce. It is not elected by the people he would be by the House of Representatives—a majority of the State delegations being Democrats; and finally, we are very confident that Mr. Webster would not countenance such a movement. There might be some slight basis on which to ground a movement in his favor—but there is no such chance, and the triumph of Whig principles is now of paramount importance."

WHITE MOUNTAIN STATION HOUSE.

PEABODY RIVER—FORMAN, N. H.—THIS capital and elegant establishment is erected especially for the accommodation of travellers on the White Mountains, situated on the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad, and at the immediate base of the white mountains.

The House is but a few hours ride distance from Portland, and five hours from Boston, by daily Railroad trains over the Eastern, Boston and Maine, and Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad.

An excellent public highway, suitable for carriages, extends from this House, seven miles up the Valley of the Peabody River to the eastern base of Mount Washington. At this point a convenient public house is now open for the accommodation of persons ascending the Mountain. The usual ascent of this side can be accomplished with more facility and expedition than from any other quarter.

Tourists and artists of the most approved taste have pronounced the scenery upon the northern and eastern sides of the Mountain, to be much more wild, rugged, and truly Alpine, than any presented on the other sides. Pedestrians can make the ascent of Mount Washington from Peabody River, and return, in from six to eight hours.

To facilitate the ascent, a safe and convenient bridge is opened to the summit of Mount Washington. The numerous Mountain Streams and Lakes in the impetuous violence abound in trout. Six miles north of the House, upon the line of Railroad, and accessible also by carriage road, are the celebrated BRINK FALLS, on the Androscoggin, the most remarkable cataract in New England.

Passengers are landed from the cars directly in front of the House. The Railroad train from Boston and Portland, every day, will afford constant communication to and from the Mountain.

A LINE OF TROLLEY EXTS to the House, by which despatch can be transmitted to all parts of the country for the convenience of visitors.

LORGEY & CO.'s Stores connecting with Railroad at this House, ten TWICK DALEY, between the Station House at Gorham, and Falmouth and Gibbs, on the west side of the Mountains. This road has been made a safe and easy road, and passes over CATSKILL MOUNTAIN, and along the base of MOUNT ADAMS AND JEFFERSON.

The House is large and commodious, constructed with great regard in architectural elegance, and with all the conveniences of a FIRST CLASS HOTEL. It has ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY ROOMS, and is newly and thoroughly finished throughout.

Families can be accommodated with suites of rooms.

The Proprietors having leased the House for a term of years, will do all in their power to promote the comfort and pleasure of their guests, and can promise a well supplied table, and clean and well ventilated rooms, at moderate charges. In connection with the House, is a large LIVERY STABLE, where good horses and carriages, and saddle-horses, will be furnished at all times.

Also, good Bathing rooms, for the convenience of visitors.

CURE OF A HUMOR OF THIRTY YEARS STANDING

MESRS. B. A. WHITING & CO., 101, 103, 105, 107, 109, 111, 113, 115, 117, 119, 121, 123, 125, 127, 129, 131, 133, 135, 137.

Gentlemen.—I am requested by a friend to state to you how I have been, and what I am now, in regard to health. I hardly know how to express my gratitude to you and your medicines, which have relieved me from a great deal of suffering. I have been ill for 30 years and over half that time. I have tried to find relief from medicine, but have found it difficult. I have tried several physicians in N. York, Brooklyn, and Greenport. I have tried and taken medicine too rough about a pretty long time, but all has done me no good. I cannot afford to pay for taking your medicines more than twelve months. Previous to taking your medicines, for about twenty months I was very badly off, had to take a bath every night, to wash the same, and a cloth that would collect every day. My nose usually was from three to four inches above my nostrils when I got through, the water was a good color of milk; so you may say I was now quite free from fits and pain, though I have a little of it hanging about me. As I hardly dare say what I would do, I have taken 20 bottles of the medicine, and used it, I believe, seven boxes of the Cerate. I intended to continue taking your Syrup, but I am requested to give a description of my situation before taking your Syrup. My nose was very swollen, very sore, could hardly get about, having to use one nose, could not sleep at night. Some of the time I could not even move myself or dress, unless night, might not have to shift all of the night, and I was always deprived of every thing better, but you wonderful medicine has, I feel, done much for me. I commenced taking the Syrup one year from this date, April 19, 1852. The first bottle I took in eight or nine days; the second in ten or twelve days, but before I got there a second, I was getting worse pretty fast; still I continued to take the Syrup, though not as freely. The Cerate I found rather harsh at first, but soon became soft. I rubbed it with hand, and so on, but before I got through the third bottle I was in a painful condition, the fifth bottle, and that would gather and discharge on the surface was astonishing. At this time, it would be the thickness of a fifty cent piece, the most loathsome and filthy of all complaints; but by continuing the Cerate I gradually began to get better my nose began to soften, the feeling and hardness seemed to go away, and so on, that I could get along without anache or pain. I am now able to work and exert if it is necessary, and not for any the worse for it. My neighbors say I am the sprightiest man in the neighborhood, since I have experienced its benefits. I have recommended it to many who were suffering with humor, a good many have been induced to use your invaluable medicine, and have been relieved.

Very respectfully yours,
ELIAS LATHAM.

PROSPECTUS FOR PUBLISHING IN THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS.

A NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE TO BE CALLED THE SOUTHERN LADIES' BOOK,

UNDER THE EDITORIAL MANAGEMENT OF
MISS L. VIRGINIA SMITH AND
WM. T. LEONARD, M. D.

That mental developments are influenced by the face of surrounding nature, and that this influence of thought is given by association with the monitors of climate and the gentle influence of bird and flower is not to be denied. To bring these influences into more active operation—to perfect these happinesses of our soft Saxonians, and to afford a channel of communion which may pervade the whole, and bring them into more palpable existence, shall be the primary aim of this work; while all becoming attention will be given to those collaterals which tend to elevate the tone of thought and refine the taste. Therefore every department of Polite Literature, Music, the Fine Arts, and all the more elegant branches of education and taste will be studiously cultivated. And, as a paramount object, will be the development of Southern taste and the illustration of the manners, habits, tastes and institutions of our Southern country. Every encouragement will be given, and an earnest invitation is here extended to the co-operation of the literary portion of the south.

To meet the natural whims of the ladies, their attention will be given to the fashions, and plates thereof will be regularly published.

Some of the very best writers of the country have been secured as contributors to its columns.

The Mechanical departments, including Engravings, Fashion Plates, and Typography, will be unsurpassed by any periodical in the country. Indeed it shall in all things be a Parlor Journal.

Each number will contain sixty-four pages of neatly printed letter press, royal octavo, two fine steel engravings, a fashion plate, and piece of original music.

WM. T. LEONARD & CO., Proprietors.

The first number will be issued about the 10th of July.

FORMODENTA.

STRANGE, indeed, that so few realize how essential to female beauty, and manly elegance, are a fine set of polished teeth; nothing contributes more toward it; nothing detracts more especially from it, than neglected, and consequently discolored and disfiguring teeth. They are essential to health as to beauty, for it is impossible to inhale through decayed or ulcerous Teeth, without affecting the lungs and stomach, frequently to a serious extent. In offering a remedy for this evil the FORMODENTA, MESSRS. HAZARD & CO. are satisfied that they furnish at once the most perfectly safe, elegant, agreeable, effectual, and without hurt preparation known for cleaning and polishing the Teeth, hardening the gums, purifying and perfuming the breath. In its present improved state, it has received the approbation of every one who has used it, and is just what it assumes to be. For soft, receding or discolored Gums, the ALEXIAN GUM, WASH accompanying it, produces a rich and agreeable Lather in the mouth, cleansing it effectually, and will cure any ordinary disease of the gums in a short time. Together, they form an elegant and necessary appendage to every toilet; No lady should be without them.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS.

MRS. S. M. CUDWORTH, No. 100 High street, Providence, R. I., would say she has at great expense, obtained from Dr. D. C. Hartington, the original recipe for manufacturing, together with his plate for putting up the medicine.

GENIN, No. 214 Broadway opposite St. Paul's, 126d.

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS.

discovered by J. Harrington, M. D., while practicing in the hospital in Paris, under the management of the renowned H. C. GENIN.

The Drops are invariably certain to regulate the Female System and can be taken without hazard.

They are known by hundreds of females in this country to be the only preparation ever discovered that has proved invariably certain in all cases of Suppressions, Irregularities &c. One trial will convince the most sceptical and never after will they be induced to try any other.

Ladies who have often been deceived by purchasing Pills and Neutral from Male and Female Importers, under pretence of effecting cures—medicines, in nineteen cases out of twenty have an injurious effect upon the system without effecting the desired result or any sign of it, should then these be taken without hazard.

After writing to Dr. Cudworth, and receiving what I said, and as I have not received any answer, I have written again to Dr. Cudworth.

GENIN, 126d.

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE IS A DANGEROUS THING.

THIS saying has but a partial application. A very little knowledge of the physiology of the hair teaches that want of care deprives many of that most becoming ornament to the person. Those who would desire to preserve their heads from lolliness, cut themselves on the scalp, prevent dislocation, and sever a glossiness and softness of texture, should use Bogie's Hyperion Fluid.

May look upon the process of shaving as one which requires a purely mechanical attention to accomplish perfectly. It is not so. The condition which forms the speediest and easiest accomplishment is a healthy state of the skin, and a suitable lather to preserve its roundness. Bogie's Anoint is the most approved article for softening and smoothing the skin, and imparting to it an elasticity inconsistent with any chance of irritation or eruptions which follow it. Sold by Wm. Bogie's Agents.
